PLDW Partner Bruce H. Tobey to Present Municipal Infrastructure Project Development Models and Financing Options at Upcoming National Forums

White Plains, NY – June 18, 2014 – Pannone Lopes Devereaux & West LLC (PLDW) Partner Bruce H. Tobey, a member of the firm’s Municipal Infrastructure Team and leading U.S. water law authority, was selected to share his knowledge and experience about the use of private financing to fund infrastructure reconstruction projects at two upcoming national forums. Attorney Tobey has more than 20 years of experience assisting cities and towns with infrastructure project development through innovating solutions and funding opportunities. In March 2014, he was called upon to provide expert testimony to the U.S. Congressional Transportation and Infrastructure Committee’s Public-Private Partnerships (P3s) Panel in Washington, DC.

On June 24, 2014, Attorney Tobey will participate at the National Association of Clean Water Agencies (NACWA) “2014 Clean Water Finance Dialogue.” The event will be held in New York City, and will cover how private investment can advance public utility objectives and how to attract new capital through innovative partnership structures, as well as a discussion on the key challenges and barriers to private investment in wastewater sector.

On June 27, 2014, Attorney Tobey will join multiple government agency representatives, business leaders and academicians at American University’s Partnership on Technology Innovation and the Environment’s “Expert Workshop on Water Technologies.” The prestigious group of executives will “assess, refine, and reach agreement on the Partnership’s action plan” in the areas of financing for the development of more efficient drinking water systems and leveraging financing models for innovation in wastewater treatment. The event is being held at American University’s campus in Washington, DC.

Attorney Tobey is a nationally recognized water law legal advisor, representing governments including municipalities, counties, public authorities and federal agencies, as well as private companies on environmental policy, programs, and financial and regulatory matters with a specialty in water and wastewater infrastructure, public-private partnerships, and other business development opportunities for sustainable communities.

The PLDW Municipal Infrastructure Team delivers responsive, cost-effective and strategic legal counsel and guidance to states, counties, municipalities and public authorities across the country seeking solutions to complex infrastructure needs. The firm's Municipal Infrastructure attorneys are at the forefront of new developments in efficient methodologies for water and sewer treatment, solid waste management, municipal buildings, recreational facilities, and other public infrastructure projects. The Team draws upon in-depth experience in multiple areas of law, as well as public finance, project management, real estate, contract maintenance and other disciplines to solve complicated legal issues on municipal projects from conception to completion. Whether a project involves financing, structuring contract documents, design-build, design-build-operate or the design of comprehensive public-private partnerships as it relates to a public project, PLDW attorneys deliver the fullest range of legal services to clients nationwide.
