Meagan L. Thomson is an Associate with Pannone Lopes Devereaux & O’Gara LLC and a member of the Litigation Team. Her practice focuses on complex litigation, including trusts and probate administration disputes, providing legal support, advocacy and counsel in all stages of litigation and motion practice.

Attorney Thomson is an adept legal researcher and skilled writer who has handled complex liability defense matters and advised clients, including multi-national corporations and insurers, around New England and nationally. Prior to joining the firm, she served as in-house counsel for a diversified global insurer in the area of global ethics and compliance, where she advised business groups on cybersecurity and data privacy issues, vendor compliance, contract matters and employee investigations.

Attorney Thomson earned her J.D. from the University of Connecticut School of Law and her B.A. in Anthropology with a focus on Archaeology, summa cum laude, from the University of Connecticut. During law school, she served as the Membership Editor of the Connecticut Public Interest Law Journal, as a legal intern in the Rhode Island Attorney General’s Consumer Protection Unit, and as a summer associate in the legal department of a Fortune 5 company. Attorney Thomson is admitted to practice law in Connecticut, Massachusetts, and Rhode Island and is a member of the Rhode Island and Connecticut Bar Associations.
