PLDW Municipal Infrastructure Practice and Attorneys Featured as “Law Firm of the Month” in Long Island, NY Attorney At Law Magazine

White Plains, NY – January 28, 2015 – Pannone Lopes Devereaux & West LLC (PLDW) Municipal Infrastructure attorneys are featured in the January edition of Long Island, New York’s Attorney At Law Magazine and recognized as the publication’s “Law Firm of the Month.” PLDW Principal and Partner, Teno A. West, who leads the Municipal Infrastructure Team, and Partner Josh J. Meyer participated in a wide-ranging interview including a discussion about the firm’s founding, core values and culture, to the legal services the attorneys have performed in Nassau County. The article sheds light on why some government entities like Nassau County can meet the challenge of financing and managing infrastructure project development through the innovative P3 model to reduce costs and the time it takes to complete a project, while offering an affordable long term means to protect the environment, meet the demands of rigorous sustainability standards, and support local economic development efforts to create jobs. The four-page pictorial essay highlights the team’s leadership and negotiation prowess in completing a complex agreement between Nassau County and United Water to operate and maintain the county’s wastewater system that ultimately is projected to save about $378 million over the course of 20 years. In addition, the article puts the spotlight on the team’s leadership in the procurement and negotiation of a new lease providing for the redevelopment of the iconic Nassau Veterans Memorial Coliseum site with a privately-financed, multimillion-dollar public-private partnership to transform the aging Coliseum into an attractive, first-class destination for sports and family entertainment.

For decades, members of PLDW's Municipal Infrastructure Team have served as counsel to states, counties, municipalities and public authorities throughout the U.S., from New York to Los Angeles and from New England to Puerto Rico. The Team is widely known for their work in the practice areas of water and wastewater law, solid waste management, procurement and project finance, and alternative delivery models for project development, including P3s. Their work is extensive, and includes special project counsel for individual ventures to permanent outside counsel for government agencies, to municipal and public utility governance consulting. As well-seasoned advocates and exceptional negotiators, the firm's Municipal Infrastructure lawyers provide practical and extensive knowledge and expertise that comes from former service as government managers and attorneys, and as elected officials. The attorneys focus on building the right group of attorneys for each client, drawing from the depth and breadth of resources at PLDW, and providing effective and responsive service, with a keen awareness of managing costs efficiently for every municipal infrastructure engagement.

The Long Island, New York edition of Attorney At Law Magazine is a business and legal practice publication that showcases and connects lawyers and prominent law firms in the local community and throughout the region. The company also publishes MD News, America's leading business and practice management magazine for physicians.
